Ryan Loveless

Director

Services: Consulting | Industries: Healthcare, Travel and Tourism, Retail, Manufacturing and Distribution | Specialization: Business Strategy, Mergers and Acquisitions, Transformation, Strategic Planning, Process Improvement, Growth Strategy

Professional Overview

As a member of the Management Consulting Services (MCS) practice, Ryan works with clients to answer their most challenging questions. By helping company leaders develop a better understanding of their customers, the markets in which they operate, and their capabilities, Ryan has enabled organizations in numerous industries to recognize opportunities to grow and scale their business, improve operations, and increase profitability.

Prior to joining Elliott Davis, Ryan served as a project leader with The Boston Consulting Group, providing guidance on such topics as growth strategy, large-scale transformation, mergers and acquisitions, and process improvement. He worked for a number of Fortune 500 companies across several industries, including healthcare, manufacturing and distribution, retail, and travel and tourism. Ryan also previously worked for GE Energy, where he managed the logistics for all wind turbine blades in North America.
